

PARIS HOUSES SHOULD BE PROPERLY NUMBERED

THE NEWS has on many occasions endeavored to impress upon the people of Paris the urgent necessity of having all the business houses and residences of the city properly numbered, in order to help the safe delivery of mail, and to make Paris a place without a stranger could find a certain place without a multiplicity of directions. The system has never been completed, and with hundreds of new houses going up in various parts of the city, new business houses recently completed, and many old houses not numbered at all, the problem has become a very perplexing one, and one that should be solved.

The suggestion has been made that the new Board of Council should take the matter up, and see that the work is properly done. THE NEWS heartily endorses the suggestion. It is something badly needed in a place like Paris, for the benefit of the postal service and the citizens alike. One condition of the establishment of free mail delivery here was that all the houses should be properly numbered and receptacles for mail placed for the convenience of the mail carriers. Has this ever been done? We think not. Let's get busy and correct the mistake.

WHERE IT WILL DO THE MOST GOOD

When Judge Porterfield, of Kansas City, Mo., removed one of his low cuts and set about the correcting of four juvenile delinquents in a businesslike way he started something. We are not thinking of the endless bromidian paragraphs, of those who can be relied upon to repeat, "Spare the rod and spoil the child. We are wondering if this dramatic interlude may not set people to consider whether after all the old-fashioned remedies had not some merit of their own and might not, on occasion, be resorted to with advantage. For truancy the old way was a good way. If it was a real spanking administered "con amore," the boys are not going to forget it in a hurry. There is besides a certain element of disgrace attached to public castigation which does not seem to go with detention in a home for such offenders. Not only so, but the associations formed in such a place are rarely such as are harmless and frequently most scandalously the reverse. These then are saved.

The boys went back to school, we are told. We can believe it.

IN THE COUNTY COURT

Sam Baker was presented before County Judge George Batterton in the County Court Wednesday, on a charge of failing to contribute to the support of his two minor children. He was ordered by the Court to pay $2.00 a week for their support, and released from custody upon a solemn promise to provide for them.

His First Christmas

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union

He heard shouting across streets, wishing others "A Merry Christmas."

Now and again the wind blew loudly, but not shrilly nor harshly nor with a walling sound. The wind, too, seemed to be quivering with happiness. All of nature had joined together to be as beautiful, as radiant, in honor of the day as possible.

The hills were covered with snow. The branches of the trees were laden with it. Icicles hung from eaves and from corners of houses, and windows were frosted with exquisite designs. The shrubs, too, were covered with snow. It looked more like Fairyland than anything else.

In the house they were waiting, waiting, waiting.

How tense and long seemed the wait. How nervous, how frightful, and yet how marvelous—if all went well.

But just suppose everything didn't go well? Suppose anything happened?

Ray Clarke paced up and down the floor and wondered how he could have been so happy—so free from nervousness for so long a time.

He hated the great beauty of the outside world. When he heard people wishing each other "Merry Christmas" he almost hated their smiles and their cheerful voices.

How deeply he loved Lillian. She was worth all the Christmas presents in the world! Of course. There were no two ways about that.

And the doctor had said with such a genial, merry twinkle in his eyes: "Well, I fancy the young son and heir will be a Christmas present from the missus to you!"

He had laughed at the time, and Lillian had blushed and smiled and laughed, too. The doctor was such a friendly old soul—he had been the doctor when Lillian had been born. And he was fine, too.

But perhaps he counted too much on Lillian's strength. Ray had been sent out of the room and he had been alone here now for so long.

At first he had been so full of high spirits. But the delay had been so strange. They hadn't told him there would be any such delay. They had simply sent him out of the room and had said that everything was all right, and that they'd come and tell him soon to be back to see his child.

He would go upstairs. He couldn't stand this another moment. And it was so quiet. He had fancied it would not be quiet. Then he heard a strange shrill voice.

How curiously it sounded. Was that Lillian. She must be very ill to have a voice sound so curiously. He never heard it like that.

They couldn't keep him from her. She would want him, too. Of course she would!

He hurriedly ran up the stairs. The doctor was at the top of the stairs. "Wait a moment; not so fast; not so fast," the doctor smiled. "I was coming to tell you."

"Couldn't you have let me come to her? Did you have to wait until it was all over to come and tell me?"

Ray said in a husky voice.

"She wanted it to be that way," the doctor said. Still he was smiling.

How could he smile at such a time? How hard and inhuman doctors became.

"I don't believe a word of it," he said. "She wanted me, I know. I heard her cry. That was it. You kept me from her. You wouldn't let me go to her and she—she—wanted me."

"My dear Ray, just a minute," the doctor said, but Ray had rushed past him and was in his wife's room. Tears were in his eyes.

Oh, he'd never forgive himself that he had consented to do what the doctor had told him to when suddenly he noticed that Lillian was looking at him, her eyes wide open, smiling happily.

"Did you hear him shout out a 'Merry Christmas' to you, Ray?" she asked.

"It was the baby who cried?"

"Not a cry, my love, 'Merry Christmas' was what he said!"

"Lillian, my own, my own," he murmured, and bent down over her. And now the tears came freely. He didn't care at all about them. Nothing mattered. For the tears—they were the tears of joy!

PARIS HIGH SCHOOL BASKET-BALL SCHEDULE

The Paris High School basketball team has arranged the following schedule for the 1921-1922 season, as follows:

Games at home: December 22, Ewing High School; January 7, Nicholasville High School; January 20, Dayton High School; January 28, double-header, Covington High School, Flemingsburg High School; February 3, Maysville High School; February 4, Lexington Senior High School; February 17, Somerset High School; March 3, Lexington Model High; March 17, Cynthiana High School; March 31, Carlisle High School.

Games away from home: December 17, Nicholasville High School; January 6, Lexington Senior High School; January 13, double-header, Louisville Manual Training School, Jeffersonville High School; February 16, Lexington Model High School; February 24, Covington High School; February 25, Dayton High School; March 16, Maysville High School; March 24, Cynthiana High School; April 7, Somerset High School.

This schedule is the best the school has ever undertaken. Three very attractive trips have been planned, one three-days' trip to Louisville, playing Louisville Manual Training School, Jeffersonville High School, and likely at St. Xavier's College. Another attractive trip will be the one to Covington, Dayton and Newport, for three days, another to Somerset, Burnside and Monticello. Twenty-five High School boys are practicing for the team, and the prospects are good for both the boys' and girls' teams. Games are being arranged with the Millersburg Military Institute, of which announcement will be made later.

NOVEMBER REPORT OF HEALTH AND WELFARE LEAGUE

The November report of Mrs. Harriet Minaker, Visiting Nurse for the Bourbon County Health and Welfare League, recently submitted, shows that she made 264 calls during the month, and had 61 office calls and 160 telephone calls. Only three cases were sent to the hospital, and one to the County Infirmary.

Mrs. Minaker reports a splendid collection of clothing and supplies for this time of the year. Mrs. Minaker is making a special appeal to the public to buy Christmas seals, and thereby enable Santa Claus to visit many homes of the needy and destitute as possible.

P. H. S. LYCEUM COURSE

The third number of the Paris High School Lyceum Course was given at the P. H. S. Auditorium last night to a large and appreciative audience. Harold Morton Kramer, traveler and lecturer, gave his famous lecture, "Laughter, A Gift of The Gods," in a most interesting manner. While the lecture showed flashes of fun and humor, it also showed the mental, moral and spiritual value of laughter. It was a lecture that held the interest of everyone, Mr. Kramer being a speaker of unusual power and eloquence. He is not only a famous lecturer, but is novelist, soldier, journalist, and teacher. He has been on the lecture platform twelve years, and is listed in "Who's Who in America."

The fourth number of the Course will be presented on Thursday evening, December 22, when Dr. Peter MacQueen will present an inspiring lecture on the subject, "Readjustment of The World." Season tickets are still on sale, and the enthusiasm for the Chorus is steadily increasing, as tickets are sold every day.

HEALTH IN THE SCHOOLS

A nation-wide campaign to teach health rules to the 25,000,000 children in the country through the medium of the public schools is urged by the United States bureau of education. The plan of the campaign is outlined in a government pamphlet on "Suggestions For Health Teaching in the Elementary Schools," which is now being distributed broadcast.

The goal is to make health instruction as fundamental a part of the child's education as are reading and arithmetic, and thus to make ill health as rare as illiteracy.

The bureau claims that out of the 25,000,000 children in the country, not fewer than 15,000,000 are suffering from physical defects which might be prevented.

If this is true, and such a statement would not be sent out by a government bureau without having knowledge of the facts, it reveals a startling state of affairs and makes such a campaign as is proposed highly necessary.

First Christians in China.

Nestorian Christian missionaries were received by the Chinese Emperor Taitsung in 631. He listened to an exposition of their creed and ordered the Christian Scriptures translated into Chinese for his perusal. In 638 he announced that he found the new religion satisfactory and that it might be preached within the empire.

FINED FOR BAD BEHAVIOR

Within twenty-four hours after he had been released from the Paris jail, where he was held on a charge of having a moonshine still in his possession, his bail having been reduced from $500 to $250, Charles McFeeney, in company with his brother, Collins McFeeney, was arrested on warrants charging them with disturbing religious worship at Blacks Cross Roads, being drunk in church, carrying a concealed weapon and resisting an officer.

The testimony offered at the examining trial was to the effect that Collins McFeeney was drunk, that he created a disturbance in the church, and that he was twice removed from the building. That while he and his brother were scuffling outside the church, a bottle of whisky in his pocket was broken, and that a revolver was taken from him by one of the bystanders.

One witness testified that Charles McFeeney had threatened to kill Sheriff Will G. McClintock and his son, Deputy Sheriff Thos. McClintock, who had come to arrest them, accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Jas. Gibson, and that he had attempted to brain Sheriff Will G. McClintock with an automobile jack, while the latter's back was turned. Collins McFeeney was given a fine of $50, and his brother, $10 and costs.

INGROWN NAIL

Toughen Skin and Toe Nail Turns Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgrow" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgrow" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions. (F-tf)

SEED GROWERS ORGANIZE

A Clark county committee composed of R. P. Taylor, B. D. Goff and Joe S. Lindsay was directed at a meeting of the Blue Grass Seed Growers of Clark county to get into communication with the seed men of all the counties which produce bluegrass seed for the purpose of calling a meeting, January 10, in Winchester. The object of the meeting which has been called is the formation of a co-operative association for the handling of the bluegrass seed crop of Kentucky.

Word "Money" Comes From Rome.

The word "money" is derived from monera, a name given by the Romans to their silver pieces, because coined in a building on the Capitoline Hill attached to the temple of Jupiter Moneta. The officers in charge of the mint were called triumviri monetales. The Romans first began to coin silver about 280 B. C.
